

Fifth Grade Class in the Middle School in Wittenberge (1888)

Abstract

Class photos became a common way of remembering school days beginning in the 1880s. This photo from 1888 shows the forty-seven 5th grade students at a middle school (later called Realschule) in Wittenberge with their teacher in front of an artificial backdrop. The middle school was a secondary school and was intended to prepare boys for mid-level civil service careers or technical professions. The boys are wearing the typical clothing of the time for schoolboys: shorts (which were also worn in winter) and jackets. Class photos were usually taken shortly after enrollment at the new school and could be purchased as prints.

Source

Source: Atelier A. C. Mohns. Photograph (1888)

bpk-Bildagentur, image number 20003659. For rights inquiries, please contact Art Resource at requests@artres.com (North America) or bpk-Bildagentur at kontakt@bpk-bildagentur.de (for all other countries).

© bpk

Recommended Citation: Fifth Grade Class in the Middle School in Wittenberge (1888), published in: German History in Documents and Images, <<https://germanhistorydocs.org/en/forging-an-empire-bismarckian-germany-1866-1890/ghdi:imagine-1360>> [May 01, 2024].