

Seven Antisemitic Leaders (1880s)

Abstract

“A German seven who do not love the Jews.” This undated contemporary postcard presents a rogues gallery of antisemitic leaders whose organizing or propaganda activities stamped the profile of the antisemitic movement in the 1870s and 1880s. Pictured are (clockwise from top): Theodor Fritsch (1852–1933), Paul Förster (1844–1925), Otto Böckel (1859–1923), Adolf König (1850–1900), Bernhard Förster (1843–1889), Max Liebermann von Sonnenberg (1848–1911) and, in the center, Otto Glagau (1834–1892).

Source

Source: “A German seven who do not love the Jews.” Postcard (1880s). Nachlass Karl von Fechenbach, Bundesarchiv Koblenz, Bildstelle.

Recommended Citation: Seven Antisemitic Leaders (1880s), published in: German History in Documents and Images, <<https://germanhistorydocs.org/en/forging-an-empire-bismarckian-germany-1866-1890/ghdi:imagine-1463>> [May 01, 2024].