

Socialist “Revenge” (1888)

Abstract

This painted wool banner marked the tenth anniversary of the Anti-Socialist Law for faithful socialists in Berlin. It calls for “revenge” against those who had prosecuted and otherwise intimidated members of the party and declares: “Long Live Social Democracy.” It was confiscated by police during a demonstration celebrating a decade of socialist resistance to the state.

Source

Source: Deutsches Historisches Museum, Berlin, Inventar-Nr: Fa 67/84.

© Deutsches Historisches Museum, Berlin

Recommended Citation: Socialist “Revenge” (1888), published in: German History in Documents and Images, <<https://germanhistorydocs.org/en/forging-an-empire-bismarckian-germany-1866-1890/ghdi:image-1454>> [May 03, 2024].