

May Day Parade in East Berlin (May 1, 1963)

Abstract

From 1951 onward, May Day, the most important holiday of the international workers' movement, was celebrated in the GDR with a parade in East Berlin; starting in 1956, the May Day parade opened with a military parade based on the Soviet model. This photograph from the 1963 May Day parade shows a division of the National People's Army [Nationale Volksarmee or NVA] passing in front of the state and party leadership. The sign in the background reads: "Long live the 1st of May." Photo by Horst E. Schulze.

Source

Source: National People's Army Parade on May Day. Date: May 1, 1963. Photo: Horst E. Schulze. bpk-Bildagentur, image number 30008358. For rights inquiries, please contact Art Resource at requests@artres.com (North America) or bpk-Bildagentur at kontakt@bpk-bildagentur.de (for all other countries).

© bpk / Horst E. Schulze

Recommended Citation: May Day Parade in East Berlin (May 1, 1963), published in: German History in Documents and Images, <<https://germanhistorydocs.org/en/two-germanies-1961-1989/ghdi:image-112>> [May 01, 2024].